FLY-TWA
 to FRANKFURT

MARGINAL COLUMN BY NISSEN BRUNAN

LISTENING TO Cairo
 Radio's recording of the rally sponsored by the National Union at Al-Minya in Upper Egypt last Thursday night, we could not help wondering whether there is anything that the West can do in these parts to make matters worse. Arab nationalists stop talking about imaginary imperialist plots. Of course, the obvious and immediate answer to this question is a definite NO. Arab nationalists the way of democracy and slander, Colonel Nasser and his associates will continue creating enemies, however imaginary, and the West, with its wide and legitimate interests in the area, seems to present the easiest target. Blaming it all on the hated imperialist has worked as far, and at first glance there seems to be nothing the West can do to remedy this situation.

AND yet you cannot fool all the people all the time, and there are indications that the ordinary Egyptian is getting tired of the whole show. In fact, although Colonel Nasser and his henchmen speak of little besides the imperialists and their stooges, a certain hollowing was noticeable in his speeches, and the crowd was not worked up into a frenzy every time these godless enemies were mentioned. There is some reason to believe that Nasser felt a certain disappointment at the fact that his newly-acquired loan from Moscow to start building the high dam at Aswan failed to create the anticipated violent reactions in Western quarters, despite Cairo's repeated insinuations that the loan was a bribe to develop as important as the Suez Canal in 1956. As it were, Nasser contented himself with the thought that, "were it not for the presence of the imperialists in Egypt," the dam would have been built "years ago."

CAN this give a clue to a possible course of action whereby the West can minimize the effectiveness of Nasserist propaganda? Suppose Washington and London engaged themselves to the Arab world in everything except their most vital interests; would not that help create conditions whereby the current resentment of the West could spend itself? Nasser has, somewhat hopefully, promised his listeners more imperialism, plots, poisoning, and an air of anticipation that imperialism "is fighting us in the economic field, with radio broadcasts, and by spreading rumors." It would be interesting to see precisely what imperialist plots and crises credit next time he delivers himself of an "important political speech." If these plots are to be as few as those he could, then he may find himself out of a job before long.

BUT it is not only in Nasser's pronouncements that imperialism plots, poisoning, and an air of anticipation that imperialism "is fighting us in the economic field, with radio broadcasts, and by spreading rumors." It would be interesting to see precisely what imperialist plots and crises credit next time he delivers himself of an "important political speech." If these plots are to be as few as those he could, then he may find himself out of a job before long.

THIS toning down in Egyptian propaganda does not, of course, arise from any sense of moderation; it is due to totally objective causes. The July coup in Iraq and the resolution of the Lebanese crisis have greatly diminished the scope of this propaganda. In both countries the hated enemy was defeated albeit in varying degrees, and unless something new comes up there is no point in attacking people whom you have done so much to bring into power. As for King Hussein, the genuinely popular acclaim which he got following last Monday's accident, has proved that he is a hard nut to crack.

Sudan Cabinet Re-forming On All-Party Basis

AMMAN (Reuters). — Brigadier Tom Strickland, who served with the Arab Legion under General John Gubb, returned here on Saturday to take part in a scheme for British officers to advise the Jordan armed force on technical and training policy.

Brigadier Strickland, chief liaison officer with the British forces sent in answer to Hussein's appeal in July, is the second British officer appointed as adviser. The first was Wing-Commander Jock Dugdale, Hussein's personal pilot who flew the plane attacked by the Syrians last Monday.

The Jordan radio stations completely ignored the return of the British officers while Cairo Radio gave it considerable prominence and led its Saturday night news bulletins with it.

It is understood that Hussein, who was instrumental in dismissing Gubb and other British officers attached to the Arab Legion, personally asked the British Ambassador for renewed British help during the latest crisis.

A British Embassy spokesman confirmed that the two British officers had returned at the request of the Jordan Government. He said the Brigadier would remain for six months and the Wing-Commander possibly for a year.

The spokesman was reluctant to discuss the advisory scheme, but he said no more officers "of this particular kind" were expected to arrive.

He added: "The scale of assistance we are giving is modest by comparison with the number of Soviet advisers and technicians with the United Arab Republic."

Queen Zein to Return via Syria

AMMAN (Reuters). — The Government announced on Saturday that the Queen Mother of Jordan, Queen Zein, is to return from Switzerland by air one day this week in a civil aircraft flying over Syria.

The announcement said Queen Zein would arrive in Amman "on some date between November 17 and 20." The vagueness of the date was understood by observers here to be a security measure.

The Queen will be accompanied by two young princesses who went with her for holiday and medical check in Lausanne about two months ago. The royal party will be met in Beirut by an official delegation which will fly back with them to Amman in an aircraft of Air Jordan, the announcement said.

There was no mention in the announcement of the date of return of Crown Prince Mohammed, who has also been holidaying in Lausanne, and official sources would not give any information on his movements.

The fact that Queen Zein was planning to fly over the same route on which King Hussein's plane was intercepted by Syrian fighters on Monday was interpreted here as an indication of a rapid reconciliation between Jordan and the U.A.R.

Groups of youths roamed the streets of Amman and the Old City of Jerusalem on Friday night shouting "Down with Gamal Abdul Nasser," the name of the U.A.R. President, who was pointed on a card attached to a procession of about 150 youths who demonstrated outside the office of Mr. Spinnelli, U.N. Envoy in Amman, and again at a similar demonstration in the Old City on Saturday.

Soviet Unit in Cairo For Aswan Project

CAIRO (Reuters). — Five members of a Soviet delegation led by Mr. Pavel Kirilov arrived in Cairo on Friday to study the Aswan high dam project.

The dam is expected to cost more than $400m. So far there have been no offers of assistance from the Western powers, chiefly the U.S., who in 1956 withdrew offers to provide the Arabs with technical help for the project.

In Bonn, the West German Transport Minister, Dr. Seeborn, said on Friday that President Nasser was a moderate, retiring man with no hint of the dictator about him.

Dr. Seeborn, who returned recently from a visit to Cairo where he met President Nasser, said the Arabs were not anti-Semitic but opposed to the State of Israel.

Dr. Seeborn gave his opinion that the West German should help Egypt more than the anti-Semitic but opposed to the State of Israel.

U.N. Votes Togoland Independence in 1960

UNITED NATIONS. — An Arab delegate sponsoring the birth of a new African nation and another quoting Jefferson on freedom of the press ended the session of the Trusteeship Committee, which was the privilege of Mr. Arie Elkan, First Secretary of the Israeli delegation, to ask the General Assembly to "sign the birth certificate" of Togoland. The Assembly unanimously approved the agreement between France and the Togo Government providing for independence by 1960 for the territory east of Ghana.

Another member of the Israeli U.N. team, Mr. Shimon Arad, referred to Thomas Jefferson during the Budgetary Committee's discussion on U.N. expenditure on information. Suggesting rejection of the proposals of an expert committee that the department's work be restricted, Mr. Arad noted the strong opposition by U.N. correspondents and quoted Jefferson as saying: "Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press."

Belgrade Assails Gomulka For Joining Anti-Yugoslav Campaign

BELGRADE (Reuters). — Yugoslavia on Friday accused the Polish Communist leader, Mr. Wladislaw Gomulka, of joining the Soviet Premier, Mr. Khrushchev, as an "instigator" of the Communist bloc's anti-Yugoslav campaign.

A Government spokesman, commenting on Mr. Gomulka's recent visit to Moscow during which he and Mr. Khrushchev criticized Yugoslavia, said the Government welcomed the development of Polish-Soviet friendship. But it was "abnormal and unacceptable" that this friendship should be built on joint attacks on third countries, the spokesman told a press conference.

"The statements of Gomulka and Khrushchev, in spite of the wishes expressed in them for friendly inter-state relations, in fact represent a contribution to and instigation of this (anti-Yugoslav) campaign."

Earlier the official Yugoslav news agency, Tanjug, revealed that Yugoslavia has accused Bulgaria of actions tending towards "further sharpening of relations" between the two countries.

A protest note delivered in Sofia last Wednesday accused a member of the Central Committee of the Bulgarian Communist Party, Mr. Todor Zhivkov, of making "crude and insulting" attacks on Yugoslavia in a speech last week.

The note was the latest in a series sent to Eastern European Communist states this week. Earlier notes protested to East Germany and Albania against anti-Yugoslav speeches.

President Tito on Friday returned to Belgrade from a month's medical treatment for rheumatic complaints on Brioni Island.

Khrushchev Shows Who's the Boss

WASHINGTON (Reuters). — Western diplomats said on Friday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's firm control over the Communist hierarchy appeared to have been demonstrated by his denunciation of Marshal Bulganin and the "anti-party group" of the former Premier, Nikolai Bulganin.

Diplomatic sources said they believed that Mr. Khrushchev had sought to warn any secret aspirants for his twin posts of Premier and Communist Party Secretary that the reins of power were firmly in his hands.

Mr. Khrushchev's seven-hour report on the new Soviet seven-year plan included a denunciation of Marshal Bulganin and the "anti-party group," adding also Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov and Shepilov.

Mr. Khrushchev said: "The anti-party group opposed such urgent and vitally essential measures as the putting under cultivation of virgin lands and the reorganization of economic planning, particularly in the sphere of agricultural production, reorganization of the management of the industries and building trades, and they worked against the foreign policy line of the party which has for its aim the strengthening of friendship between the peoples."

This group opposed the party's Leninist general line, the political course adopted by the Twentieth Congress of the Communist Party and the party's leading role and slid down to fractional splitting activity.

"With the anti-party group swept out of the way, the Communist Party will still further the Leninist unity of its ranks."

Reallocation of Vacant Ministries Likely Today

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The re-assignment of the three portfolios — Social Welfare, Posts, and Religious Affairs — which have been held temporarily by General Minister since the National Religious Ministers resigned last June is due to take place at today's (Sunday) meeting of the Cabinet, it is reliably learned.

The Religious Affairs Ministry is expected to be given to a rabbi not identified with any political party. Chief Rabbi Y.M. Toledano of Tel Aviv has been prominently mentioned as a likely candidate, but no final decision has yet been made.

There is strong feeling that both the Social Welfare and Posts Ministries will be incorporated in other Ministries. Social Welfare may be put under the Health Ministry (headed by Mr. Israel Barzilai Mapam), while Posts may be attached to the Transport Ministry (headed by Mr. Moshe Carmel of Abud Ha'avot).

As for the Progressives, it is thought that they will be allotted one or two Deputy Ministers in other Ministries.

At its meeting four weeks ago, the Cabinet decided that if the National Religious Party was not back in the coalition by November 15, the re-assignment of their portfolios would automatically go on the agenda.

Mansfield: Iraq Can Take Refugees

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters). — Senator Mike Mansfield, the deputy majority leader, suggested on Friday that some of the refugee problem of the Gaza Strip and West Jordan could be settled in Iraq and help its development if that country were stabilized.

Speaking at a luncheon of the U.N. Correspondents Association, Senator Mansfield said he favored his Government's position that an alternative to the present U.N. Relief and Works Agency must be found by mid-1960.

Czechs Protest Over Macmillan 'Insult'

PRAGUE (Reuters). — The Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry on Friday issued a statement accusing the British Prime Minister, Mr. Harold Macmillan, of "crudely" offending Czechoslovakia.

It also said an explanation of Mr. Macmillan's remarks to the Czechoslovak Ambassador at a diplomatic reception in London last week could not be regarded as satisfactory.

Czechoslovakia alleged Mr. Macmillan told the Czechoslovak Ambassador that elementary human rights were being suppressed in Czechoslovakia and that her Communist system would one day be changed.

HAIFA. — Aharon Cohen, the espionage suspect, returned to his home in Sha'ar Ha'amakim on Friday morning after IL10,000 bail was posted for him at the District Court by the Kibbutz Treasurer, Mr. S. Dror. Cohen himself also signed a bond for IL10,000.

He refused to talk to reporters.

Sees Situation 'Dangerous'

BONN (Reuters). — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said on Saturday that if Berlin were cut off by the Russians or the East Germans, that could be answered with counter-measures.

Adenauer, who was speaking to Christian Democratic Party journalists, said that Soviet Prime Minister Khrushchev's statements on Friday about the status of Berlin had resulted in an extremely dangerous situation, not only for West Germany but for the whole world.

It was difficult to understand the stiffer attitude of Moscow because details of what was happening in the Soviet Union were not known, he said, adding that there were surmises that Mr. Khrushchev wanted to give himself a foreign affairs forum for the forthcoming Communist Party Congress in order not to deal with internal affairs such as his action against Marshal Bulganin.

Russia to Present New Plan for Berlin

MOSCOW (Reuters). — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in a Kremlin speech on Friday that Russia intends making "definite proposals" on the status of Berlin to the countries which fought the Axis powers in World War II.

Speaking four days after his proposal that Russia should hand over her part of the four-power control in Berlin to East Germany, Mr. Khrushchev said, according to Tass, that his Government was "preparing an appropriate document" on Berlin's status.

On Saturday, Moscow Radio accused the U.S. of violating the Potsdam Agreement and said the Western powers had themselves destroyed any legal right to remain in Berlin. No "judicial wrangling" could help them to justify their continued stay, a commentator said.

In his speech, Mr. Khrushchev said Russian armed forces would not be used anywhere or at any time for "predatory purposes." Russia had not said she would fight against the West over Berlin.

Push-Button War

"But we have said and we are saying that the aggressors will be given a crushing rebuff if they attack the Soviet Union and the Socialist countries."

The Soviet Premier added that whole countries could be destroyed at the press of a button in Moscow. Warfare more reasonably settled by negotiation without the sort of threats conveyed in a recent "bellicose" statement by Western generals.

Much of the speech dwelt on Russia's seven-year plan which Mr. Khrushchev said aimed mainly at economic advancement, with prior expansion of heavy industry.

Will Not Negotiate

The State-Department said in a statement on Friday that reports of possible negotiations between the U.S. and East Germany over Berlin did not accurately reflect American policy and appeared to be based on a misinterpretation.

Informed sources did not, however, interpret this statement as ruling out the possibility that U.S. military authorities in Berlin would have to make contact with the East German authorities to keep open the West's supply lines.

Authoritative sources in Washington said on Friday that the West's allies had agreed that the present Berlin situation did not call for any special move beyond reaffirming the West's commitment to defend West Berlin, by force if necessary.

U.S.-Tunisia Rift Seen A 'Misunderstanding'

WASHINGTON (Reuters). — The State Department called in the Tunisian Ambassador, Mongi Slim, on Friday to discuss what officials termed a "misunderstanding" over the supply of Western arms to the North African country.

He had an 80-minute meeting with Deputy Under-Secretary of State Robert Murphy.

In Tunis, Foreign Minister Mokadem conferred the same day with Mr. McKillop, U.S. Charge d'Affaires, and later with Mr. Dearden, First Secretary at the British Embassy.

Chinese Too Sleepy

To Be Stakhanovites

PEKING. (Reuter). — Many workers in Shanghai have been sleeping by their machines during China's current drive to boost production, the Communist Party newspaper, "People's Daily," said on Friday.

The newspaper said it was difficult to persuade workers to go to bed at regular hours. The Shanghai Committee of the Communist Party has issued instructions to Party officials to ensure that workers and peasants were guaranteed eight hours sleep a night and to pay special attention to young people, expectant mothers and those in delicate health. The Party instructed officials to improve technique and not overwork was the best way to tackle the present heavy tasks.

Greek Patriarch At St. George Fete

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The Greek Orthodox Patriarch of Jerusalem and the Middle East, Benedictus I, crossed the lines into Jerusalem from the Gaza Strip Saturday morning for an official visit to the members of his flock living in Lydda, Ramle and Jaffa.

The Patriarch was accompanied by a suite of 12, — bishops, archbishops and deacons. They were met at Mandelbaum Gate by the Greek Diplomatic Representative, Mr. Paul Pandermis, and members of the Greek community in the city.

In a ceremony at the Russian Church, Father Nicodemus of the Russian ecclesiastical mission of the Moscow Patriarchate was ordained archbishop by the Patriarch. The bells of the Church could be heard throughout the centre of Jerusalem. This was the fourth ordination of a Russian priest since the establishment of the State.

In the afternoon, the Patriarch and his party left for Lydda, where the feast of St. George is being celebrated today (Sunday). St. George, the patron saint of England, Aragon and Portugal, was martyred in Lydda. The Patriarch interrupted his first visit to Israel four months ago when a coup d'etat took place in Iraq. He will return to Jordan on Monday.

Shippers' Employee Not Forced to Quit

Jerusalem Post Reporter

We regret the publication in Friday's paper of an erroneous report of the Supreme Court ruling in the appeal of an employee of the shipping agents, Barnett Bros. and Borchard, against a verdict of the Haifa District Court denying him severance pay. While the Supreme Court did rule that an employee who had been persecuted and forced to leave his employment was entitled to severance pay, this was not the case with Mr. Wolfgang Lazarus, who the Court found had resigned of his own free will and therefore not entitled to receive compensation.

Export Drive Must Emphasize Quality, Packaging — Bartur

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The main problems of Israel's foreign trade do not lie in the search for new markets but in increased efforts to improve quality and packaging of our products, Mr. Moshe Bartur, Assistant Director-General of the Foreign Ministry and Director of its Economic Division, told the weekly luncheon meeting of the Commercial and Industrial Club on Friday.

"Without more competition in the home market, we will never be able to compete abroad," Mr. Bartur declared. Israel will shortly have to reorient its entire foreign trade policy to take into consideration the trend to a common market within the Office for European Economic Cooperation, Mr. Bartur said. Today, between 60 and 70 per cent of our imports and exports are handled through countries members of the E.E.C.

We must obtain entry to the widest possible trading areas, obtain reductions in customs duties, and concentrate our efforts on securing terms for transport of our exports.

Only access to a large and open market on the same terms accorded other states would enable Israel's export industry to develop to the point where we could balance our trade. This in turn required an effort on our part to adapt ourselves to changing conditions, he declared.

The number of commercial treaties with foreign states had declined since 1953. These agreements had played a restricted part in our import, while fulfilling a decisive role in exports, Mr. Bartur said.

Bilateral trade agreements have been entered upon principally to reduce import duties. Such agreements were also made with Eastern European countries, which conduct their trade only by treaty.

Reshevsky to Play Szabo in Windup

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The International Chess Tournament entered its tense last-but-one round on Saturday night at the Helen Keller House, with Grand Master Samuel Reshevsky of the U.S. in top form, scoring a brilliant victory over Holland's Van den Bergh.

The American champion is now level with his rival, László Szabo of Hungary, both having nine, and a half, points. But Reshevsky has an adjourned game in hand against Dunkleblum of Belgium. A dramatic struggle will no doubt ensue in Sunday's final round, when the two representatives of the East and the West meet face to face.

The last game was drawn between the Israeli champion, Porath (6½) and Diner (4). Both agreed to a draw while still in the middle of the game.

Porath is to play Van den Bergh (who follows him with 5½ points), in the final round and relied on Reshevsky to hold him down in his one, as was the case.

Next Persitz (7½) and Wade of England (7) then also agreed to a draw after the first two moves in an almost comical position.

Since Szabo had made his thrust on the queen side and Dunkleblum's king was turned away on the king's side, with a mass of pieces facing Szabo's spearhead, the Hungarian offered a draw and was promptly accepted.

Tight-Locked Defence

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Grand Master Szabo (9½), playing the Black pieces against a rather timid Dunkleblum, pushed his pawns ahead to create the strategic basis for a counter-attack. He early got a knight in the harassing position of Q5 and set about to crack Dunkleblum's defence. But the Belgian, not taking any risks, withdrew all his pieces and locked himself in tight on the first two rows in an almost comical position.

Since Szabo had made his thrust on the queen side and Dunkleblum's king was turned away on the king's side, with a mass of pieces facing Szabo's spearhead, the Hungarian offered a draw and was promptly accepted.

All Out to Win

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Reshevsky, entering the round with 8½ points and a game in hand, was all out for a win against Van den Bergh. Playing white, he spent his usual hour or so on the opening moves, and in an exchange of knights on the queen side, broke open the Hollanders' flank and came out with a free pawn. The queen's rook file, thrusting along this file while maintaining a threat on the king's side, Reshevsky forced Van den Bergh to divert his resources to counter the thrust with its implied threat of a queened pawn.

Then the hall was electrified by a brilliant sacrifice of a queen. Van den Bergh did his best, but Reshevsky had it already. In a series of lightning hammer blows, he had his elegant opponent parrying on all sides, finally crushing him with a two-pronged coup de grace, the moves delivered so swiftly that two attendants at the wall board and the judge were unable to keep up with him. As he rose from his chair the hushed audience broke into applause.

Results: Reshevsky 9½ (1) beat Van den Bergh 9½ (1); Persitz 7½ drew with Wade 7; Porath 6½ drew with Diner 4; Aloni 4 (1) beat Rosenberg 4; Bruck 4 (1) beat Burstein 4; Blumenfeld 2 (1) v. Cherniak 5 (1) — tabulated by 11.45 p.m.

Tuna Clipper Takes Four Israel Apprentices on 3-Month Cruise

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The Japanese tuna clipper, Shinyo Maru was due to leave for a three-month fishing trip in the Atlantic after midnight on Saturday.

She is taking with her four Israeli fishermen to be trained in the art of the tuna fishery, and is leaving behind one of her crew members, Mr. H. Tremura, 20. He will join the crew of the Israeli trawler Queen of Sheba, which is engaged in experimental fishing in the Red Sea.

Mr. Tremura, a graduate of a Japanese fishing college, will teach the crew long-line fishing — tuna clippers fish with lines 40 km. long bearing 800 hooks.

The four Israelis, chosen from among some 500 volunteers, are Levi Jaeger, 20; Moshe Hoffman, 19; Yosef Carmel, 20; and Irena Polak, 19. Jaeger and Hoffman are graduates of the Mikhmoret fishing school and have just completed their National Service. Carmel and Polak are engineers on an Israeli trawler. He is the only married man of the four.

The men, who only went aboard on Friday, and were welcomed by the Japanese crew, still communicate with their crewmates mainly by sign language. But the Israelis have already started eating rice with chopsticks and hope soon to start speaking Japanese.

They are getting excellent pay for their trip and supplies of meals and vegetables have been taken on specially for them to supplement the menu of rice and tuna.

According to the Israel-Nippon Fisheries Company, they are to serve as a nucleus of the crew of the first Israeli tuna clipper when the company intends to buy next summer. The captain of the Shinyo Maru, Mr. Toshio Okada, 55, has expressed his willingness to serve as master of the clipper when it is bought.

Under her contract, the clipper is due to bring here over 750 tons of tuna to Israel, which she will do in three trips. The first consignment of 240 tons has been aboard. The boat itself does not come from cold storage when local catches are poor.

Before leaving, the crew gave the boat another thorough scrubbing, afterwards laying a foot mat at the top of the gangway to prevent any dirt being brought aboard. The boat itself does not have the usual trawler's fish smell, as tuna is odorous.

Dr. Schwartz will remain here until Wednesday.

The 1958-59 Bond campaign, which is now entering its peak, is running only $2m. behind last year in spite of the recession, it is learned. Last year's income was $50m.

Father of Five Accused Of IL 8,000 Theft

Jerusalem Post Reporter

NATANYA. — A father of five was accused of stealing IL 8,000 from the Jewish Agency's warehouse in Pardesia, near here, police reported on Saturday.

The man, whose name is being withheld by police, has a criminal record. The Jerusalem Post was informed. He was dismissed from his position in the Agency carpentry shop five months ago and it is assumed that the pilfering occurred within the last few months.

The robbery was discovered more than two weeks ago during an inventory of the stores, whose value is about IL 400,000. A senior Agency official from Tel Aviv attempted to solve the crime on his own, but gave up and called in the police on Thursday.

They found blankets of the type stolen in various shops in Natanya. A footprint found near the warehouse on Friday allegedly proved to be that of the suspect. His house was searched and two Agency blankets were found there.

As the four watchmen employed by the Agency are also under suspicion of aiding the suspect, their homes were searched, but nothing was found.

25-Year-Old Takes Life By Hanging

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — A 25-year-old took his life here on Friday by hanging himself from the door frame of his flat. The man, whose name was not revealed by police, was found by members of his family. Police are investigating.

He gave an example of this by relating the I.S. desire for a cordial relations with the Arab world, and "I am not sure if it would have been good to live under the protection of American guarantees."

Aluf Dayan said he was "not among those who felt uncomfortable" at the overthrow of British planes to Jordan after the Israeli revolt. Israel could not have been neutral for the passage of the planes meant frustration of the basic issues, he said. Jordan and "no one could demand that we be neutral in our own problems."

Haifa Maccabi Lay T.A. Clubmates Low for Cup

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — A jubilant Haifa Maccabi won the Sucoet Cup on Saturday evening after a brilliant 4-0 victory over League A champions and State Cup holders, Tel Aviv Maccabi. Playing before 8,500 spectators at the City Stadium, Haifa led 2-0 at half-time.

The home side thrashed the Tel Aviv giants who were hardly recognizable with their poor form and play. The Haifa team on the other hand combined well together with a fighting winning spirit.

They controlled the game for most of the 90 minutes. After Held and Almani had scored in the 14th and 15th minutes, the visitors exploited the cut in the second half. During the next 75 minutes, a total of 26 off-sides were counted, most of them deliberately manoeuvred.

In the second half, Held netted again in the 64th minute, and Amar signed off with a beautiful goal three minutes before final whistle.

The game was sportsman-like and excellently handled by Referee Schleifer. Efrat, of Tel Aviv Hapoel, presented the cup, the second to come north in a week, Haifa Hapoel having clinched the Asor Cup last Saturday.

In a friendly game, League A team Kiryat Haim Hapoel scored a surprise 3-1 victory over National League Ramat Gan Hapoel.

Jerusalem Post Reporter

After a series of losses in the past weeks, Jerusalem Betar beat Hadera Maccabi 3-1 on the Y.M.C.A. pitch in a friendly game, after being 1-0 behind at half-time.

The visitors were the better team; especially in the first half. They took the lead through centre-forward Shaul Rotman in the 12th minute, but missed at least three more excellent scoring chances later.

Betar got going in the second half, and in the 58th minute, Aminoff equalized with a wonderful header. Ehud Federman gave the home side victory by scoring twice in the 77th and 88th minutes. (M.P.)

Iceland Charges U.K. Trawler with Violation

Jerusalem Post Reporter

REYKJAVIK. (Reuter). — Iceland on Friday demanded that the British trawler Mackness and its master be brought to Iceland to face possible legal proceedings for violation of Icelandic law and regulations.

An official protest handed to the British Ambassador, Mr. Andrew Bichrist, by Foreign Minister G. Gudmundsson, said that the incident close to the Icelandic coast on Wednesday involving the Mackness, an Icelandic gunboat, and a British stroyer was the "most serious of all incidents caused by British vessels in Icelandic waters."

Iceland has claimed that the British frigate Russell rescued the Mackness when it was found inside the international three-mile territorial waters limit, with its fishing gear unostentatiously by the Icelandic coastguard vessel Thor.

MADRID (Reuter). — Tyrone Power, the American film actor, died here suddenly on Saturday, aged 45. He was taken ill after shooting a scene in the film, "Solomon and Sheba" in which he was starring with Gina Lollobrigida, George Sanders and Marisa Pavan.

Power, who was portraying Solomon, was rushed from the film studio by car to a nursing home. But he died just as he reached the home — still wearing his film costume.

Power was married in May this year to the actress Deborah Montgomery Minardova, a 28-year-old divorcee. He was previously married to Annabella and to Linda Christian, both actresses.

Bigger Families Mean Lower Blood Pressure

Jerusalem Post Reporter

LONDON (Reuter). — The bigger the family, the lower the blood pressure of the parents, according to a Welsh survey, discussed in the "British Medical Journal."

"Single men have higher pressure than the married, and the father of small families higher than those of large families," the "Journal" said in an editorial.

The fact that parents of large families had lower pressures in spite of the fact that pregnancy often brought a rise in blood pressure. This was borne out by a Norwegian survey made in Bergen.

U.N. to Study Means Of Financing UNEF

Jerusalem Post Reporter

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter). — The General Assembly on Friday heard charges of "inequity" in the financing of the U.N. Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip and decided to ask for recommendations on future financing.

Dr. Alfonso Robles, of Mexico, said that at a recent date, 62 of the member states had made no payment towards the cost of U.N.E.F. for this year and they included 11 of the 21 countries which had sponsored a resolution on U.N.E.F. finances.

The Assembly voted by roll call on the Special Political Committee's resolution which would request the Administrative and Budgetary Committee to recommend such action as may be necessary to finance the continuing operation of U.N.E.F. The resolution also noted "with satisfaction the effective way in which the force continues to carry out its function."

The vote was 52 in favour, nine (the Soviet group) against and 18 abstentions.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Zorin said the fact that numerous states had refused to contribute to the fund showed they did not "wish to bear the material responsibility for an aggression they have neither committed nor supported."
